School Administration speaks strongly against Question 2

By BRENDAN FOLEY
News Correspondent

brendanmfoley@outlook.com

WILMINGTON — The Wilmington School Committee authorized a resolution on Wednesday night that strenuously opposed lifting of the cap on Commonwealth Charter Schools. The committee members implored citizens to vote "No" on Question 2 in the upcoming November election.

There are currently 78 active charter schools in Massachusetts, with a cap of 120 allowed to operate in the state. Voting "Yes" on Question 2 would allow the Massachusetts Department of Elementary and Secondary Education the ability and authority to lift the cap, allowing as many as 12 new charter schools or expansions of existing charters each year.

Charter schools are a favorite of Governor Charlie Baker, who has made supporting and advocating for charter schools a major focus during his time in office, even introducing a bill with the same proposed charter school growth last October. Baker is opposed by Massachusetts Democrats

Committee to be formed about later school start times

WILMINGTON — As reported by the Town Crier last March, Superintendent Mary DeLai and the Wilmington School Committee have attached their support to a Middlesex League initiative pushing for later start times for high schools. This initiative took another step forward during Wednesday's school committee meeting, with the school administration announcing a new committee to continue work on the project.

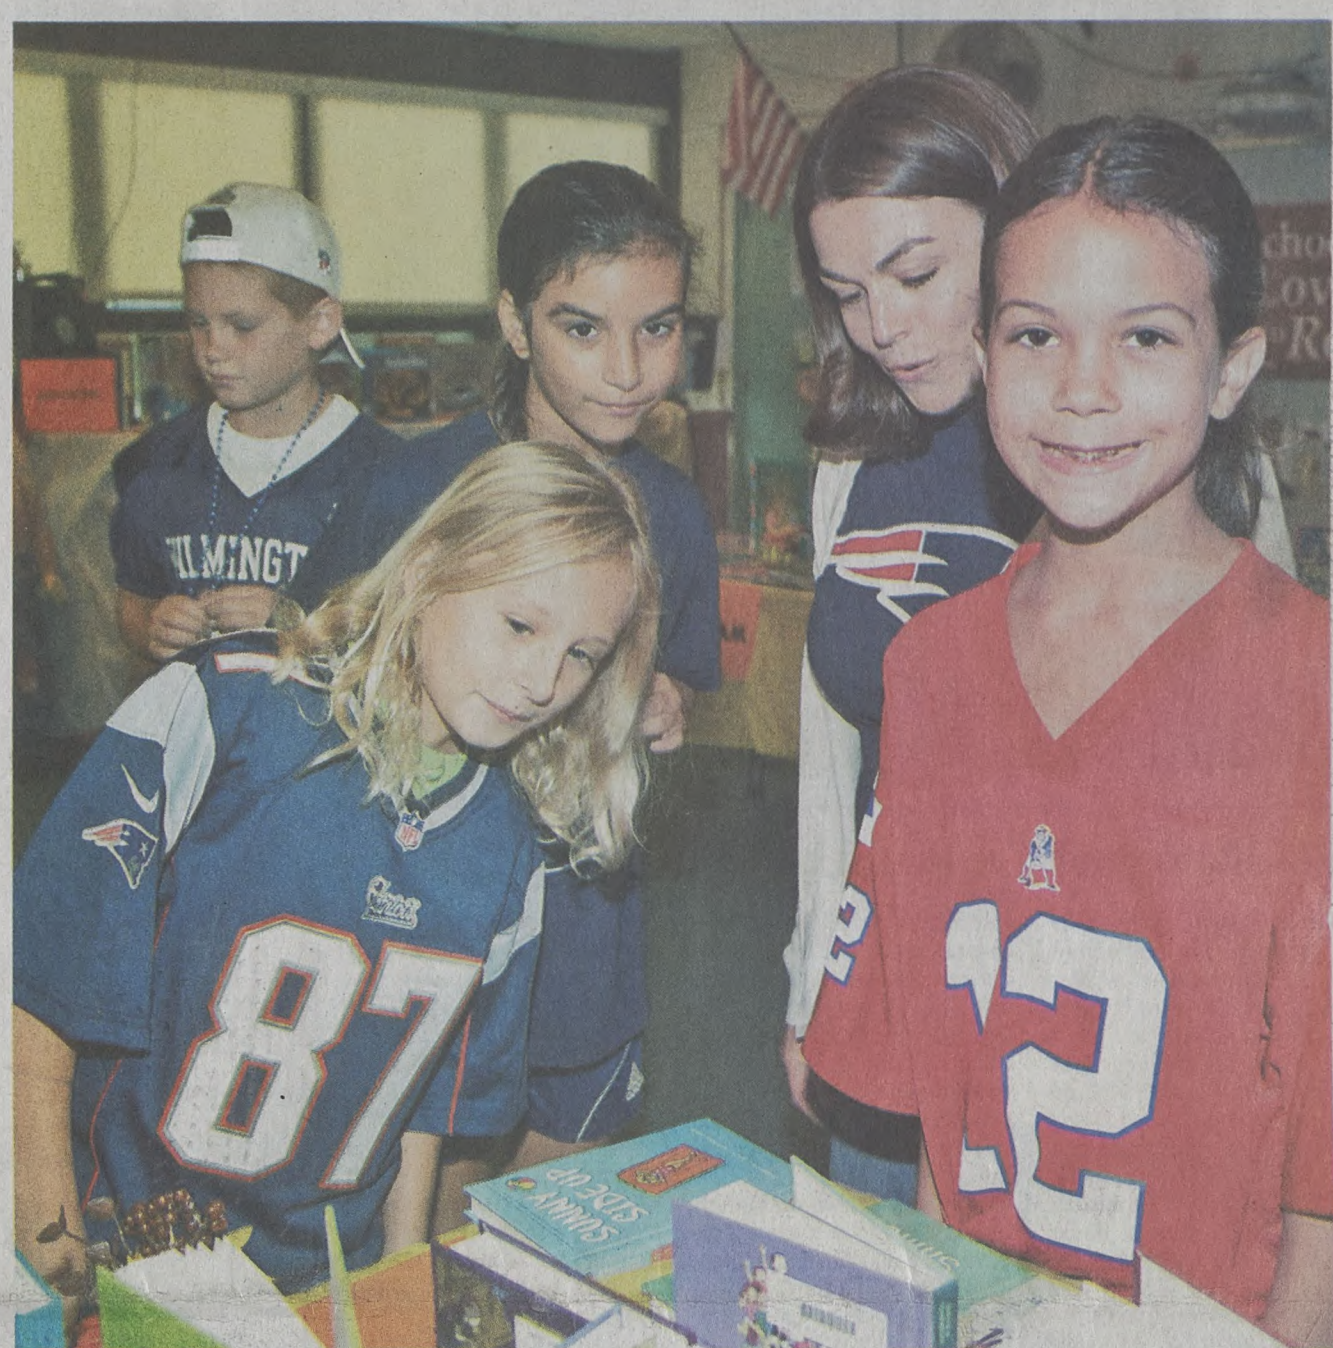

The proposed change would move High School start times to between 8:00 a.m. and 8:30 a.m., in contrast with the 7:30 a.m. to 8 a.m. start time currently used in the Middlesex League. After school competitions would be scheduled to ensure that students did not miss academic time.

The push to change start times has been spearheaded by Eric Conti, superintendent of Burlington schools, and has been supported by administrators and faculty across Middlesex.

At last Wednesday's school committee meeting, DeLai proposed the formation of a special subcommittee, a Later School Start Time Working Group.

North Intermediate School receives money from Book Fair proceeds and grant

WILMINGTON — The North Intermediate School recently came in to $7,000 worth of new books for their library. This money came from a $5,000 grant from author James Patterson and the proceeds from the spring Scholastic Book Fair.

"James Patterson started partnering with Scholastic for these grants about two years ago. I applied with some 300-word essays, and in November found out that we got chosen for a $5,000 grant," said North Intermediate School Librarian Heather Peachey. "The funds came pretty quickly, and I could start buying the new books right away. We were in a second round for the grants; the first round went to big cities like Boston or Worcester."

According to the Scholastic website, last year Scholastic received nearly 28,000 applications on behalf of James Patterson. In the end, over

Teacher remains in classroom after assault and battery charge

WILMINGTON — Wilmington High School physical education teacher Anthony Altieri was arrested in Essex last week for domestic assault and battery on an intimate partner, and assault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

According to police reports, Altieri admitted to striking the alleged victim, but said he only struck her after she slapped him.

Arresting officer Detective Ryan Davis stated in his report that the alleged victim had a large, open laceration on her forehead and an open wound on the bridge of her nose when Davis visited her in the hospital. Police were notified to the case by the alleged victim's mother, who contacted police from the hospital in the early morning following the alleged assault.

The woman states that she and Altieri got into an argument, which she claims escalated to the point that Altieri attempted to take her phone by force. The woman told police that she got free and then slapped Altieri before locking herself in a child's bedroom.

She goes on to claim that at this point Altieri forced his way into the room, grabbed her by the back of the head, and slammed her face into the door frame.

The alleged victim then drove herself to the hospital.

HOW GOOD IS ZERO INTEREST CREDIT?

It sounds like something for nothing when a retailer or a credit card company offers zero interest credit, when no interest is due for a certain period, whether six months or a year.

It IS a good deal if you pay off the purchase in full within that time period. But if you don't, the costs can be high. For instance, the interest rate on the purchase is often high and, worse yet, the interest can be charged retroactively, back to when the purchase was made. And the interest may be charged on the entire amount of the purchase, even if the buyer has made partial payments along the way.

Credit counselors recommend that buyers and borrowers read the small print before they sign. They suggest consumers create a budget to determine if they can pay off the purchase in time, avoid other purchases on that card until it is paid for—and then question whether they can afford to buy the item at all.

What's the credit-smart way to buy expensive items? You can count on the good advice you get at:

Mahoney to speak about domestic violence at Tewksbury Country Club

TEWKSBURY - At the second annual Dr. Hugh, Ruth and John Mahoney Event, survivors of various cases of violence will share their stories, along with some possible solutions to overcome violence.

The event will be held at the Tewksbury Country Club on Wednesday, Oct. 19 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Maureen Mahoney, currently a resident of Florida and a former Tewksbury resident, is a survivor of a 1975 shooting on New Year's Eve, which killed her parents and brother, according to an Oct. 22, 2015 article in the Lowell Sun.

Mahoney said all of the survivors who will speak at the event have "chosen a path" of helping others. All of them survived unrelated incidents of violence.

At the event, she said she wants to talk about not only the tragedy, but also domestic violence, violence against children and how to combat these issues as a community.

She said violence is "an epidemic ... we're not addressing aggressively enough."

Between 2003 and 2012, 266 people were murdered in "intimate partner homicides, and 74 domestic violence homicide perpetrators were killed" in Massachusetts, according to the website for the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence.

Mahoney said she believes communities can benefit from more education about domestic violence, especially parents who came from violent homes.

People harmed in the past sometimes make poor choices, which may have long-term negative consequences. Bullying in schools, for example, means there could be "a bigger bully at home," she said.

Mahoney said the responsibility to education children about violence falls on their caregivers, whether they are parents, relatives, or other guardians.

"The best parents are the happiest parents," she said.

People must first define abuse, Mahoney said, adding she defines it as anything that "causes undo stress and pain," as well as fear. She said adults sometimes use it against children as a threat.

She also said people must be "active bystanders" by reporting any crimes they witness. Sometimes domestic violence and violence against children are unreported because the perpetrator may tell the victim not to say anything or the victim may be in shock, according to Mahoney.

In this case, authority figures have a responsibility to help the defenseless "get out of a horrible situation that they have no control over."

At the upcoming event, she said she also wants to discuss ways to discipline others without using violence, whether it is physical, emotional or otherwise.

Last year, Mahoney helped raise over $35,000, which was split between the Tewksbury Police Department, UTEC in Lowell, the Center for Hope and Healing in Lowell and the Michael Christensen Center in Lowell to stop violence in those communities.

Six organizations submitted proposals for the grant this year, Mahoney said. She does not know how much money the grant will be worth because they are still raising money, but she hopes one or two organizations will win the grant, which will be used to combat domestic violence and child abuse.

Tickets cost $50 and may be purchased on the Greater Lowell Community Foundation's website or by check through the mail to the Greater Lowell Community Foundation. There will be a dinner and social hour from 6 p.m. to 7:15 p.m.

Red Cross Club has big plans

By JULIA SESSA
News Correspondent
office@yourtowncrier.com

The Red Cross Club, created by co-presidents, Miah Cummings, Natalie Veloz, Ashley Cronin, and Lauren Whelton, is an exciting new club that TMHS offers. Under the advisement of science teacher, Ms. Galusha, the club is organized to help give back to the community through different kinds of fundraised events and acts of service.

Started in the spring of 2016, the club has accomplished blood drives and donations.

"After hosting a very successful blood drive this past August, we are looking forward to hosting another in the near future to help the American Red Cross meet their high demand for blood donations," said Ashely Cronin, co-president and senior at TMHS. "The ECHO club is passing the annual TMHS blood drive into our hands and our main goal at this time is to host the club's very first in-school blood drive this fall."

Along with organizing the blood drive, the Red Cross Club hopes to put into effect their pen pal program.

"We also hope to continue donating to the Lowell General hospital, as well as starting a few new projects such as a pen pal arrangement with a retirement home," said Lauren Whelton, co-president and senior at TMHS.

The club is centered on community service but is also great for students interested in the science and medical fields, since the national American Red Cross organization is recognized for its work during natural disasters and other tragic events.

The Red Cross club is a perfect cross between the two, which is a great addition to TMHS. In the upcoming year, the club hopes to achieve big projects along with fundraising. Eventually they would like donate half of the money they raise to the Red Cross Association.

Letters to the editor

Wilmington School System setting a bad example

Dear Editor:

I am a 2011 Wilmington High School graduate and I am ashamed to have graduated from the same school system who has placed this excuse for a man on leave after he ADMITTED to beating his girlfriend and then allowed him back to his job.

I do not care that he was a great teacher or athlete, he abused a human being. Shame on the superintendent for issuing such a blase statement and following the same trend of not calling out men who commit atrocities for what they are.

What example are we setting for our students? How hypocritical after the numerous assemblies and classes regarding respect and abusive relationships. I specifically remember having Mr. Alteri for health class and a whole lesson was dedicated to spotting and helping friends in abusive relationships.

We all know that if a student committed the same offense, he would be suspended or even expelled. What do we tell our students who live in fear at home much like Mr. Alteri's girlfriend, who spend their days with the guidance department just trying to get through? I sure hope there are professionals on hand helping students who suffer/have suffered from abuse and see this unfolding in what might be their only safe space.

He is not sitting at a desk all day or working from home, he is teaching and interacting with students ages 14-19, an impressionable age where many students look up to teachers as role models.

I understand he deserves all his judicial rights but this is despicable. At least keep him away from students and keep him on leave until he has his day in court and we find out who he truly is.

I am so embarrassed and ashamed that the same school system that shaped me into who I am, inspired me to be an advocate for others and a respectable human being is allowing people who fly in the face of that, back into their folds.

Shame on everyone involved in this.

Thank you,
Erika Johnson

With drought should come burning bans

Dear Editor:

When I was growing up, the idea of going camping evoked visions of tents, sleeping bags and marshmallows toasted on the camp fire. We sat around the fire and poked at it — kept it going because it was our source of light in the darkness and kept us warm. It was cheap, fun and we always respected the fire — made sure it was out before we went to sleep for the night. Not anymore.

Through-out most of the year, we have the windows closed — either it's too cold and the heat is on or too hot and the AC is on. On those rare days when the temps dip below 75, we open the windows to let in fresh air. Only, it's not fresh — it's smokey. Reminiscent of a week-long camping trip that had no showers. When you came home, you had to air out your sleeping bags and tents and wash the smoke out of everything else. Now, my house is filled with smoke on a regular basis. Which make me cough and impregnates everything in my house, making me feel like I'm in a camp ground.

I know man has had a fascination with fire since he discovered flame — I understand heating your home with a wood burning stove when it's cold out, but I'm just wondering when we became a community of camp grounds? This constant outdoor burning needs to calm down. What about all the people with breathing disorders — Asthma, COPD, Emphysema and allergies to smoke? Hard to believe we still have neighbors with "burn barrels" who also burn trash. I'll be working out in my yard enjoying the day and suddenly hit with a wall of thick, acrid smoke — God only knows what was being burned at that time. Seriously???

What about the fact that we are in an extreme drought? When we went camping, there were "Smokey the Bear Fire Alerts." If it hit extreme, you would not have been able to have a camp fire. They were concerned about burning down the forest. What about our homes? We have a water ban because of the drought which I might add that no one adheres to — so is it a case of it doesn't matter? Will there be enough water pressure when we have a fire?? We have crunchy, dry lawns. Our trees are cracking and already losing leaves because they're so dry, so let's have a fire anyway??? I am saying this because the amount of smoke I'm smelling leads me to believe that the persons responsible for lighting them don't know what they're doing — or their fire wouldn't be smoking so badly. If they're inexperienced, they also are not aware of the danger of the sparks or smoldering fires left unattended. WHY ISN'T THERE A FIRE BAN??

We don't need the smoke to keep the insects away. THERE AREN'T ANY INSECTS! why? BECAUSE THERE'S A DROUGHT!

Zero Waste Day aims to sync local charities with goods

By PAIGE IMPINK
News Correspondent
paige@yourtowncrier.com

TEWKSBURY — This coming Saturday, Sept. 24, the 8th annual Zero Waste Day will kick off at the Wynn Middle School at 9 a.m. and run until 1 p.m. A joint effort between the Tewksbury Recycling Committee and the Tewksbury Congregational Church, ZWD has blossomed into a not-to-be-missed tradition each fall.

The ease of this drive through event presents the opportunity for residents to clear out basements, closets and attics of perfectly good items that could be used by others in need.

Representatives from 15 local charities will be onsite to accept gently used furniture, dishes, clothing, pet items, extra home building supplies, ink jets, bicycles and more. A complete list is on the website www.zwdtekwbury.org.

Also, electronics that have piled up in the home can be recycled safely and responsibly for a small fee through M&K Recovery Group. Small, medium and large items can be recycled for $1, $5 and $10.

Co-organizer Beth McFadyen wants donors to know that "items donated at 10 a.m. can be in the hands of a family in need by 7 p.m. that night."

Many of the charities work through social workers to connect clients with goods from the event.

"Furnishing homes and clothing children are core to what we facilitate here," McFadyen shared.

She also wants people to know that the event is open to non-Tewksbury residents. McFadyen goes on to ask people to think about what they are bringing.

"If you wouldn't give it to a friend or bring it into your own home, please don't leave it here," citing no disposal facilities and the discretion that event volunteers have to reject dirty, broken or moldy items.

As the event flyer states: "If you wouldn't give it to a friend, please don't bring it to Zero Waste Day."

Nancy Kannell, Director of Project Home Again in Lawrence, has participated for many years.

"ZWD is one of our favorite days of the year," she exclaimed. "We get a chance to collect the items our clients need the most — linens, pots and pans, dishes, dressers, and kitchen tables and chairs."

Kannell also likes working with other "like-minded nonprofits" who seek to "keep things out of landfills."

Kannell praises the event saying that "year after year, the organizers put their hearts and souls into making the event a success for both the donors and the organizations collecting items. It is a win, win, win."

Reducing the waste stream in Tewksbury is another goal of the effort.

"With over 20,000 tons of items diverted from Tewksbury's waste stream, Zero Waste Day saves the Town of Tewksbury the tipping fees associated with this tonnage," according to co-coordinator Loretta Ryan, Chair of the Tewksbury Recycling Committee.

Ryan has been involved with the recycling effort for over 10 years and is also a member of the Green Committee.

Ryan went on to say that "we are looking forward to another successful event and a day in which all the participants-volunteers, charitable organizations, the Town of Tewksbury, the school department, businesses and the general public come together to make a difference."

The drive-through format has worked well, netting an average of 500 vehicles filled with items to donate. Unloaders quickly direct drivers to the right charity bay for the items in the car, reducing the need to get out and hold up flow. Receipts are available for the asking to acknowledge donations.

Residents are encouraged to check the event website for information about donating items that are not the right fit for this event. For example, exercise equipment, toys and rusty bikes are not accepted, nor are hazardous materials.

This event is not a hazardous waste event, and information for the handling of those types of items can be found on Tewksbury's Trash and Recycling Calendar on the Town website www.tewksbury-ma.gov.

Ryan added, "Please do not arrive earlier than 9 a.m. as there are large trucks that need to get into the space and set up for the different charitable organizations."

Wilmington History

Tardy moderator finds seat taken

By LARZ F. NEILSON
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — Edward Nelson Eames had a rude awakening on the morning of March 7, 1921.

Eames served as Wilmington's moderator, running the town meetings from 1909 to 1935. But in 1921 and 1922, he was "bumped."

The office had always been filled for each meeting, instead of the year. The town election was posted as part of the town meeting, and held the same day. The town clerk would open the meeting at 6 a.m., and Article 1 would be for the election of a moderator. The polls would then be open from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. for voters to cast paper ballots for various town officers. Then, at 8 p.m., the open meeting would take place for discussion and voting on the warrant articles.

Eames would usually stroll into the polls about five minutes late, and only then would the voting start. In 1921, though, some voters decided to take advantage of those five minutes.

At 6 a.m. sharp, they drew the attention of Town Clerk Jim Kelley to the time. Kelley was obliged to open the meeting. Bancroft Abbott, who lived in the old Gowing house on Federal Street, near the East School was nominated, elected and installed as moderator.

At 6:05, Eames came strolling in. "All right, Jim, you can start the meeting," he said.

"Sorry," said Kelley, "This meeting started at 6 o'clock."

In 1922, Abbott was again elected as moderator, but in December, Eames was elected as moderator for a special town meeting. Article 4 of that special town meeting changed the election process for moderator. Instead of being elected for the meeting, the moderator would be elected for the year, by ballot.

The following spring, the moderator was elected for the meeting for the last time. J. Howard Eames was elected.

In the 1923 election, Edward Nelson Eames had 219 votes and Abbott had 200. Eames was also elected as state representative for 1923 and 1924, and was unable to attend a special town meeting in June 1924. Frank Dayton, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, was elected moderator pro-tem.

For the next 11 years, Eames was elected moderator every year. In 1935, he announced his retirement.

He served in many positions, including selectman, library trustee, trustee of trust funds, Common Committee, Carter Lecture Committee and as a surveyor of wood, bark and lumber. His first town position was as a field driver, in 1888.

He was on the committee that built the Walker School. He petitioned to have Rural Free Delivery mail in Wilmington. And he was on the Board of Water Commissioners when the Water Department was first established.

Eames was a lumber dealer, partners with Charles Sargent. He lived on Woburn Street opposite Sargent, in a house now owned by the Bishops. He later built a house on Church Street at the corner of Thurston Avenue, which is now the Methodist parsonage.

Eames was from one of Wilmington's oldest families. He was born in 1858 to Horatio and Malvina Eames, who lived on Glen Road near Silver Lake. He married Mattie E. Nichols in 1887, and they had a son, Harold.

Eames bought a camera and took many wonderful photographs, mostly of Wilmington people, houses and landmarks in the early 20th Century. He kept the negatives in a wallet of glassine envelopes, with a list of many of the subjects.

The collection includes photos of several houses, including the parsonage and funeral home at the corner of Wildwood Street, two of the old Boutwell house on Middlesex Ave., the East School, the Wilmington High School baseball team on the Common, with the Roman House in the background, two photos of the Jaquith hemlock, a portrait of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sheldon, local Masons on an outing at Salisbury Beach, Link Sheldon and his cow, Deacon Sheldon and his pig, Asa Sheldon's blacksmith shop (Perry's), the "engine house" (old fire station) the Baldwin Apple monument, and the ruins of Clapp's Mill at the end of Mill Road, photos of wooded areas with a few people hidden among the trees.

Some of the photos include Eames' wife Mattie and their son Harold. There is a portrait of Mattie and Harold at home. There are pictures of Ed and Harold in a canoe, fishing, and another of Harold and a friend in the canoe. Another photo shows the boys on a crude raft with a dog.

Eames gave the collection of negatives to Harold Melzar, who, in turn, gave them to Capt. Larz Neilson in 1974.

Topsfield Fair 'Read and Win' program benefits 5,000 children

TOPSFIELD - This summer, The Topsfield Fair once again sponsored its Read and Win program with 45 libraries in Essex and Middlesex Counties as well as southern New Hampshire. Each library set a goal for elementary school children in their communities encouraging them to read library books. For reading the books, a total of 4,990 students in kindergarten through 6th grade — including 404 from Wilmington — were rewarded with a ribbon provided by the International Association of Fairs and Exhibitions and one free admission ticket for students eight years old and older.

Children under eight with an adult are always free. Plus, each child received a coupon for a free hot dog and drink courtesy of the Topsfield Fair.

To make their experience at the Topsfield Fair even more special, Fiesta Shows, the Seabrook, New Hampshire based company that has supplied wholesome family fun in the Mid-Way and Kiddie Land at the Topsfield Fair since 1950, is also awarding each child who reaches their reading goal with two ride tickets. "Partnering with the local libraries directly ties in with the educational programs that we run every year and we appreciate their support," said James O'Brien, General Manager of the Topsfield Fair. "I'm happy that Fiesta Shows was once again eager to participate in the Read and Win program with us. It is a testament to our 66-year partnership and shows they are as invested in the program as we are."

About Arbonne

Arbonne is a Botanically Based, Vegan, Wellness and Anti-Aging company with over 35 years of Swiss science experience. Arbonne is committed to the development of Pure, Safe and Beneficial products. For over 35 years, this has been the hallmark of their product integrity. From the beginning, Arbonne has developed products by combining the best of nature with leading science. The company's mission is to always improve and evaluate the ingredient policy as an ever-evolving standard of excellence, and to become the #1 Premier Global Green Brand.

What Makes Arbonne Different

Did you know that the European Union has banned 1200 chemicals from personal care products? In the United States, the FDA has only banned 12! At Arbonne, they adhere to the higher European ingredient standards — and then some. Arbonne uses plants, fruits, vegetables, and herbs as the entire base for their products. They are Vegan certified and PETA approved. They have never tested on animals or put animals in any products. Arbonne also uses NO parabens or phthalates, which mimic estrogen and are linked to breast cancer, nor do they use other hormone altering chemicals. They also do NOT use any Petroleum or Mineral Oil, which coats and seals the skin and does not allow toxins to be released. In addition, NO Synthetic Dyes or Fragrances are ever used and the Nutritional Products are formulated without Gluten, Dairy, Soy, Whey, Cholesterol, or Artificial Sweeteners.

Income Opportunity

I began as a consultant with Arbonne in December of 2015, quickly promoted to District Manager, and I am currently working towards promoting to Area Manager. At this level, my business and the income associated with it can be willed to my family down three generations. I continue to educate people on how to improve the quality of their lives while sharing wonderful products that I love. As a consultant, I get to help transform lives by sharing these unparalleled products and this amazing business opportunity with others. I meet people in a variety of ways as an Arbonne Consultant. I share information through fun and informative presentations in people's homes or online, as well as meet with people one on one to discuss both the products and the business opportunity. This business is changing my life and I am eager to share this experience with others.

School leaders maintain Altieri not a threat

Following Altieri's arrest, Superintendent Mary DeLai released a statement stating that Altieri was to be placed on administrative leave "so that the school district can explore the issue and allow everyone to prepare to move forward."

But this past Monday, Altieri appeared in classroom and continued with his class.

"Based on the information gathered, the school district made the decision that Mr. Altieri's return did not pose a threat to the safety of students or staff and it returned him to his teaching position at the start of this week," DeLai said in a press release on Monday. "The school district has looked at this issue from multiple perspectives, including reviewing Mr.

Altieri's record as an educator in Wilmington for the past thirteen years.

"Our first concern is the safety and well-being of our students, staff and families and we would not have returned Mr. Altieri to his position if we did not believe that he did not pose a threat. At this point we will defer to the legal process and will continue to monitor this matter moving forward."

The decision to allow Altieri back to work has attracted outrage from current students and alumni, as well as garnering the Wilmington school district attention from larger media, including a story on NECN and other news stations. Other students have expressed support for Altieri.

Altieri is due back in court in October.

Later school starts could happen by 2018

"This group will be tasked with researching reasonable start times for all grade levels, investigating possible obstacles to a change in start times, proposing possible solutions, and creating an action plan for any changes in time," DeLai's memo read.

DeLai's proposal suggested membership be formed by one member of the School Committee, herself, the Director of Finance & Administration, the Director of Athletics, three building administrators, including one from each level of education, one representative of the Guidance Department, three teachers, including one from each level, two students, including one from the Middle School and one from the High School, three parents, including one from each level, a representative from the police force and a representative from the business community.

Thomas Talbot volunteered to represent the School Committee, which was approved by the other members of the committee.

Per DeLai's memo, the group would endeavor to have a full report by June of 2017.

"Any budgetary impacts would then be incorporated into the FY2019 budget proposal to be voted on by the School Committee, Finance Committee, and Town Meeting prior to the 2018-2019 school year," DeLai's memo read.

Under the theoretical plan devised by the Middlesex administrators, the new schedules would not take effect until Fall of 2018.

School Committee urges voters to vote no on Question 2

and by teachers' unions.

And on Wednesday, the Wilmington school administration leant their voice to the debate, passing an official resolution and making firm declarations against lifting the charter school cap.

"I think with every budget year that we approach the costs of educating our children effectively are always at risk," said Mary Byrnes. "I think charter schools do threaten that and make it difficult for us to educate our students, many of diverse learning skills."

Fellow committee member Margaret Kane was even more forceful in her remarks.

"I don't know what people are thinking," Kane said. "They're taking the money that's coming from our community, if we had one of these charter schools, and we don't get that money back. And [charter schools] don't have to take everybody. Public schools take everybody and we do our best to make sure that every child...

is given what they need."

"Charter schools are a very different model from public education," Superintendent Mary DeLai said in a later interview with the Crier. "They don't necessarily have the same mandates and requirements that we do. If they open charter schools, and a student chooses to go to a charter school, the funding gets re-directed from the public school to the charter school."

DeLai stated that there is no strong evidence that charter schools close achievement gaps any more effectively than public schools. Because charter schools have the ability to choose which students can attend, this can also have a demonstrable, negative impact on a public school's results.

"If they choose the highest performance students and take the money with them, then we're suddenly having to deal with students who have significant challenges and even less money to deal with them," DeLai said.

400 schools were selected. Applications are first reviewed by Scholastic Reading Club to determine a pool of potential grant recipients. This pool is then submitted to James Patterson for final selection of grant recipients and fulfillment.

Any idea or concept that focuses on getting books into the hands of kids, creates a positive environment to foster a love of books and reading, and/or helps to bring books, reading, and literacy to the forefront of a community will be considered. These requirements were met by the North Intermediate School, and because of that, the grant was given and the books were bought, expanding the possibilities for the children of the school.

Many teachers, kids, and other people stopped in to see the new books and to grab some of the snacks and drinks that were available during a book preview event that took place in the North's library.

The categories of new books shown around the library were graphic novels, which had some familiar titles such as The Babysitters Club and Goosebumps, trending books, fiction, sports, biographies, series with some familiar titles like Captain Underpants and The Boxcar Children, non-fiction, STEAM books, scary, natural disasters, grammar, legends and folktales, and picture books.

With all these new books on different topics and in different genres, there are so many new books for the children at the North to read and to learn from.

"I'm thrilled, it's really wonderful, and great for the kids," said Peachey. "It's great to have new books, especially with the new ELA Program."

Many new teachers' faces to be seen throughout district schools

Katherine Mock joins the West as a part-time visual arts teacher.

The Middle School has added 14 new teachers and staff members, including Evan Berman, Lisa Brecher, Charles Cann, Allison Capuano, Melanie Flaherty, Kirstie Foley, Lena Isenberg, Kate Lerner, Bethany Lloyd, Lauri Nunes, Samantha O'Connor, Samantha Prindiville, Lindsay Schubert, Mary Beth Valuk, and assistant principal Jeanette Quirk.

Colleen Inglis will split time between the Middle and High Schools as a music theater teacher, but the High School has also added several full-time staff members.

Along with Timotheer Alberts as the new Director of Athletics and Jonathan Merenda as the new Assistant Principal, the High School will also meet Robert Carabello, Jennifer Constantzos, Kelly Hammond, Julie Kim, Janet Maloney, Alessandra Negrini, Sarah Paquette, Jeremy Salerno, and Jessica Vitale.

New faces abound at the district-level as well. Sean Gallagher joins the team as Assistant Superintendent, along with Ken Storlazzi as Director of Human Resources, Anne-Marie Fiore as Director of Technology, Alice Brown-Legrand as Coordinator of Behavioral Health and Social Emotional Support, Gina Anderson as Team Chairperson, Tristen Dixey as Executive Assistant to the Superintendent, and Alicia Serafine, part-time ESL teacher.

"I think it's really exciting for the committee to hear the quality and the caliber of the teachers that we hire, and to put names to faces," Superintendent Mary DeLai said. "As they see them out and about in the district, they begin to see who they are and form a relationship with them."

Wildcats cruise past Franklin County

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

WILMINGTON — The Wilmington High Football team was not perfect on Saturday night at Alumni Stadium in their 35-6 blow-out win over non-league rival Franklin County Tech, as they made some mistakes that could certainly cost them during the season against a rugged Middlesex Freedom Division schedule.

But with that being said, it would be hard for Wildcats fans to complain about their team's performance in Saturday night's game, a game in which they piled up 365 yards rushing and limited their opponents to 67 yards of total offense, rolling to a 21-6 halftime lead and coasting to victory from there, improving their record on the season to 1-1.

Wilmington coach Mike Barry was pleased with the way his team responded after a tough 28-0 season opening loss to Winchester last week.

"The big thing we were looking for was execution. We weren't trying to do anything fancy, we just wanted to go out and execute the plays," Barry said. "I think we did that, and it was a big improvement from last week, but there are still some things we need to get better at."

"Our guys played well tonight and you have to give them credit, because to a man I think they were all disappointed in how they played last week, and I was disappointed as well. But we didn't dwell on it, we moved on, kind of licked our wounds and dedicated ourselves to getting ready for this game. We had a good week of practice."

The Wildcats got great efforts up and down their lineup on both offense and defense, led by sophomore quarterback Andrew Sullivan, making the first start of his high school career, who rushed 13 times for 92 yards and two touchdowns on the night, along with senior running back Sam Jennings (20 carries, 117 yards, 2 TD's) and junior running back Kyle Penney (six carries, 56 yards).

Defensively, the Wildcats stifled Franklin County all night long, led particularly by the efforts of linebackers Tyler Roberts and Marken Nerestant along with defensive tackle David Wood and defensive ends Michael Cocca and Liam Rooney.

Wilmington took control almost right from the start, forcing a fumble on Franklin County's opening possession that was recovered by Rooney. The Wildcats immediately capitalized on their good fortune, marching 48 yards on six plays to take the lead on an eight yard run by Jennings with 6:49 left in the first quarter. Sophomore kicker Adam Bishop nailed the first of his five extra points on the night, and the Wildcats had a quick 7-0 lead. The key play on the drive was 21 yard run by Jennings down to the Eagles 25-yard line, which came one play after the Wildcats had been forced back due to a holding penalty.

Wilmington would add to their lead midway through the second quarter, once again overcoming some bad penalties to go on a ten play, 47 yard drive to take a 14-0 lead on a one yard sneak by Sullivan with 5:53 left in the half. Sullivan did most of the damage on the drive, including a big 13 yard run and then a key four yard run on third down to set the Wildcats up with a first and goal at the one yard line.

Another one yard sneak by Sullivan extended the Wildcats lead to 21-0 with 2:05 left in the half, capping a seven play, 59-yard drive. Several big runs highlighted the drive, including 19 yard scamper by Sullivan, a 15 yard run by Penney and an 11 yard run by Jennings.

Franklin County would respond quickly, however, needing just four plays to get on the board for the first time in the game. The Eagles struck quickly thanks in part to a big kick-off return to the 45-yard line, followed by a 20-yard pass completion to the Wilmington 35-yard line.

A 15-yard personal foul penalty against the Wildcats moved the ball closer, and two plays later Franklin County would get their only score of the game on a ten yard run by Tyler Sakowicz with 1:08 left in the half to close within 21-6 after the failed two point conversion.

The personal foul penalty

was just one of eight penalties on the night called on the Wildcats, for a total of 75 yards, an area that Barry knows they must improve on before they begin their league schedule.

"The thing that could kill us is things like fumbling the ball, which we did tonight, even though we recovered it, and then the penalties," Barry said. "No team is that good that they can overcome those type of penalties, so we just have to keep working on that."

The Wildcats were still in control, however, and they put an even more firm hold on the game with their opening possession of the second half, marching 58 yards on nine plays to make the score 28-6 on an eight yard run by Jennings with 5:59 left in the third quarter.

The Wildcats would close out the scoring on with 1:15 left in the game on a 14 run by sophomore running back Peter Marino.

Wilmington will be back in action on Friday night when they host Middlesex Freedom Division rival Stoneham, under the direction of former coach Bob Almeida, at Alumni Stadium. The Wildcats dropped a 28-12 decision to the Spartans last season in Stoneham, and the Spartans will bring a perfect 3-0 record into Friday night's game following a 35-6 victory over Arlington last week.

Barry knows his team will have to be even better on Friday than they were against Franklin County, and his is confident that they will be.

"I don't think this team has come close to playing its best game yet. That's the big thing," Barry said. "It's just a matter of how hard the kids work in practice and how much they dedicate themselves to eliminating those mistakes. If we make those mistakes down the road it is going to be very difficult to win, but if we don't create those mistakes and play solid football, I believe we have a bright future this season."

WILMINGTON — The Wilmington High girls' volleyball team took to the road Friday for a meet in Melrose. While the Wildcats came to play and competed well, ultimately unforced errors cost them the match.

Wilmington came close to tying the match in the second set but eventually the Lady Red Raiders prevailed, 3-0, with set scores of 25-11, 25-21, 25-12.

The Wildcats were led by their servers, all of whom had identical stats. Christina Woods, Heather Pozzi and Sabrina Doyle each had eight serves and one ace.

Morgan Bresnahan and Doyle shared the team lead with five kills and Lauren Field amassed 19 assists.

Next up for Wilmington was Wakefield on Monday. We will have that match and the rest of this week's action in next week's edition.

Shawsheen Tech too much for Arlington Catholic

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent
sports@yourtowncrier.com

MEDFORD - It has only been two games, and their biggest tests still lie ahead, but two weeks into the season things certainly could not be going any better for the Shawsheen Tech Football team.

After starting their season with a blowout win over non-league rival Blue Hills Regional, the Rams continued their hot start to the season on Friday night against another non-league foe, overpowering Arlington Catholic on their way to a 34-0 win at Hormel Stadium, improving their record on the season to 2-0.

The Rams rushed for 346 yards overall in the game, with 226 of those yards coming from senior running back Craig Rich, who also had a pair of touchdowns on the night. Overall, Shawsheen outgained Arlington Catholic 381-151 on the night, and limited the Cougars to just one first down in the first half.

In two games so far this season, the Rams have outscored the opposition 68-6.

"I thought we had a real team effort," Shawsheen coach Al Costabile said. "I thought we did a great job of blocking and tackling at the start of the game, and continued it throughout the game. We did a great job of moving the line of scrimmage on both sides of the ball."

Shawsheen jumped out on top in the first quarter, when on their second possession of the game, they needed just three plays to move 54 yards and score on a 19 yard run by Rich with 3:30 left in the opening frame. One play earlier, junior quarterback Cody Sughrue of Tewksbury had hooked up with wide receiver Sam Baker for a 35-yard completion down to the 19.

The Rams' Chris Ferrar ran in the two point conversion after a high snap on the extra point attempt and the Rams had an 8-0 lead.

It was just one drive, but the mix of the run and pass was a perfect microcosm of what the Rams have been so far this season, with the passing game leading them to victory last week and the running game powering them to the win this week.

"That was big for us, mixing it up like that," Costabile said. "It's always good when you can have that balance."

Shawsheen would add one more score just before the end of the first half on an 11-yard run by Baker with 22 second left in the half, and Rich's extra point kick made it 15-0 as the teams headed to the locker rooms.

Just as he had done on a few occasions last week, Baker entered the game as the quarterback on the play, took the direct shot gun snap from center and burst into the end zone before the Cougars knew what hit them.

"That's a nice weapon to have," Costabile said of the ability to mix Baker in at quarterback. "It gives us a run threat at quarterback, and is a nice change of pace. It keeps defenses on their toes and makes it hard to defend."

Shawsheen extended the lead even further on their opening possession of the second half, marching 61 yards on just four plays, capping the drive with a 37-yard burst up the middle by senior running back Jake Nardone to make the score 22-0 with 8:45 left in the third quarter.

"I thought that was a really big drive, to come out in the second half and just run the ball the way we did," Costabile said. "It put us in a situation in their territory where we were dictating the line of scrimmage. To do that, and score in just four plays was a significant start to the second half."

Rich then added his second score of the game, scoring on a one yard run with 9:16 left in the game to cap the Rams most impressive drive of the game, a nine play, 86-yard yard drive, to make the score 28-0 after the failed extra point kick.

Rich and Nardone did most of the damage on the drive, with Rich picking up 43 of the yards, while Nardone added a big 13-yard run.

The Shawsheen defense, meanwhile did not allow AC to get anything going all night, limiting the Cougars to one first down and 26 yards of total offense, and continuing to stifle them in the second half Standing out defensively for the Rams were junior outside linebacker Nick Munger, who had a sack, a fumble recovery and an interception in the end zone, along with junior middle linebacker Mark Companschi of Wilmington, who for the second week in a row led the Rams in tackles, chipping in with eight stops.

"Nick had a great all around game," Costabile said. "And Mark had

Bentley College's Erik Alatalo finishes 16th at Kirsch Cup

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent
sports@yourtowncrier.com

The college sports season continued this week, with many Wilmington and Tewksbury residents performing very well for their schools.

WILMINGTON

Cross Country

Bentley University senior Erik Alatalo finished 16th in a field of 127 runners at the Kirsch Cup Saturday morning at the State Fairgrounds in Hopkinton, NH, helping the Falcons to a second place finish among 11 teams. Alatalo covered the 8k course in a time of 26:52.7.

Emerson College senior Savannah Hubbard and her Lions teammates opened their season this past weekend at the Smith Invitational in Northampton, with Hubbard finishing the 5k course in a time of 23:16.4.

Worcester State University freshman Elisabeth Olsen finished 87th in a field of 275 runners at the 2016 Corsairs Invitational, hosted by UMass Dartmouth on Sunday, finishing the 5k course in a time of 20:13.

ning goal for the Panthers in the 81st minute in a 2-1 victory over UMass Boston on Saturday. Knotted at 1-1 with time quickly counting down, Kippenberger made a beautiful pass on a free kick to Leah Swanson who scored the game winner. Plymouth's Sophie Brisiere crossed the ball into the box where Kippenberger flicked it behind her leg to a wide open Swanson, who tapped it in to earn her third goal of the 2016 season.

Worcester State freshman forward Ashleigh Howland assisted on the only goal of the game in a 1-0 Lancers victory over Mass Maritime last Friday. Howland now has one goal and one assist on the season, and all of her points have been big ones, as her lone goal of the year was the only goal in a 1-0 Lancers victory over Salve Regina earlier in the season.

Rivier freshman forward Justin Leger scored his first collegiate goal on last Wednesday, helping the Raiders to a 6-0 victory over Wheelock. Leger has played in five of six games for the Raiders this season, starting three of them.

Ithaca College senior forward Holly Niemec and her Bombers teammates played to a 2-2 tie in the consolation match of the Upstate Collegiate Cup at Carp Wood Field at Ithaca.

With the draw, Ithaca, ranked 18th in the country in Division 3, moved to 4-1 on the season.

Field Hockey

Mount Ida freshman midfielder Melissa McNamara has started six of the Mustangs seven games on the season, helping them to a 3-4 thus far. McNamara is currently fourth on the team in shots on goal, with nine on the season.

Rivier University freshman midfielder Jaelyn Fraser had an assist for the Raiders in their 3-2 win over Regis College last Thursday. It was the second assist of the season for Fraser, who has started all five games for the Raiders in her first collegiate season.

TEWKSBURY

Football

Union College sophomore offensive lineman Alex Hamilton (pictured) has earned a spot on the Dutchmen's roster in his first year of college football after spending one season at Philips Exeter Academy.

The former Tewksbury High star and two-time MVC All-Star has played in two of the Dutchmen's first three games, including another solid game for us. He is just a tough, hard nosed football player." Shawsheen would close out the scoring with a touchdown run by junior running back Matt Cook of Wilmington with 1:40 left in the game.

The Rams will be back in action on Saturday afternoon at 4 p.m. when they take on Mystic Valley at Malden Catholic High School in a CAC crossover battle. The Small School Eagles are off to nearly as good a start as the Large School Rams, having outscored a pair of non-league opponents by a combined score of 68-12 on their way to a 2-0 start.

Shawsheen shutout Mystic by a score of 24-0 last season in Billerica, but Costabile knows the Rams will have to be at their best on Friday night, particularly while dealing with 6'4, 240 pound running back/linebacker James Lochirco, who has drawn a lot of interest from college scouts.

"He is just a stud," Costabile said. "He is an excellent football player and they are an excellent team. We will definitely have our hands full. They are the best team we have played this year."

teams.

Franklin Pierce sophomore Anthony Barinelli finished 61st in a field of 127 runners at the Kirsch Cup Saturday morning at the State Fairgrounds in Hopkinton, NH, finishing the 8k course in a time of 29:13.4, helping the Ravens to a fifth place finish out of eleven teams.

UMass Amherst sophomore Mike Famiglietti finished 71st in a field of 125 runners at the Coast-to-Coast Battle at Beantown on Friday in Franklin Park, running the 8k course in a time of 26:23.

Field Hockey

Worcester State freshman forward Hayley Sutherland scored her first two goals of the season last Friday in a 7-1 Lancers win over Salem State. Sutherland, who started all 19 games for the Lancers last season, scoring four goals, has started all five games for the team this season.

Soccer

Southern New Hampshire University senior midfielder Alexa Poulin scored the game winning goal in overtime on Monday afternoon, giving the Penmen a dramatic 2-1 upset victory over 10th ranked Bridgeport.

It was the first goal of the season for Poulin, a captain for SNHU, and it came in the 92nd minute to help the Penmen improve to 5-2 on the season.

Rivier University freshman midfielder Brittany Fletcher has played in all five games for the Raiders this season, starting one of them, and is currently third on the team in shots on the season with eight.

Wilmington Youth Hockey Weekly Roundups

Bantam 2's

The Wilmington Youth Hockey Association Bantam 2 team kicked off their season Sunday afternoon with a big 9-3 win over Acton-Boxboro at the Nashoba Olympia Skating Rink. Goalie Max Churchill was in good form, supported by defense pairs of Liam Prigmore with Colin Walsh, and Zach Smith with Harry Serounian.

Up front the starting line of Drew Gallucci at center with Joseph Hartzell on the right and Joseph Cornish on the left paid immediate dividends. Gathering the puck off the opening faceoff, Hartzell passed forward to Gallucci to spring a two on one with Cornish. That play didn't work, but the rebound came up the slot to Hartzell trailing into the offensive zone. Hartzell's shot banged off the crossbar, but the clearing attempt went to the stick of Liam Prigmore at the point. Prigmore shot right back to the front of the net and scored through the screen for a quick 1-0 lead.

After that, the second line of Nate Packer, Cody Mercuri, and Anthony Bowker went to work. Bowker scored the next Wilmington goal in signature style, and then added a power play goal before the first period expired. The Wildcats were shorthanded early in the second, and succeeded at killing off the penalty but Acton-Boxboro scored shortly after the man advantage ended. Just as quickly Acton-Boxboro was whistled for a penalty, and the power play unit of center Joseph Hansen with call-up wings Brendan Kelley and Anthony Savage almost immediately cashed in with goal. Acton-Boxboro narrowed the gap with a short-handed goal, but after that Wilmington pulled away.

Joseph Hansen added a second goal and Anthony Bowker completed his hat trick before the second period expired. In the third period, Bowker added a fourth goal and Hansen sealed his own hat trick. Joseph Cornish finished off the scoring for the Wildcats. A late power play goal by Acton-Boxboro was not nearly enough as the 'Cats roared to the 9-3 win.

Squirt 3's

After their thrilling come from behind 6-5 victory against Wellesley last weekend, the Wilmington Wildcats Squirt 3 team took to the ice again on Sunday, defeating Andover 9-0. The Wildcats got the scoring fest going late in the first period with a fantastic goal from Devin Medeiros from a Jake Carr pass. Ten seconds later, Braeddon Dymont took a center ice faceoff by himself, deking and avoiding Andover defenders to notch another goal to finish the period with a 2-0 Wilmington lead.

Half way through the second period, Ryan Weinstein put the Cats up 3-0 with another unassisted goal. Two minutes later, Jake Carr put in the first of his three goals followed two minutes later with his second of the game with an assist from David Andreason.

With the game seemingly put away, the defensive pairings of Thomas Foley, Derek Sun, Clyde Lambert and Ryan Murphy locked down on defense and kept Andover's offense at bay.

With 2:39 left in the second period, Ryan Murphy himself scored the sixth Wildcat goal to finish out the period. Two and a half minutes into the third, Alexis Fox put the Cats up by seven. The offensive juggernaut kept the pressure on Andover with help from Ryan Flynn and Kyle Spinney who assisted on Carr's third goal of the game and completing the hat trick. Half way through the third, Nolan Joyce finished off the Cats scoring for his third goal of the season and putting the Cats up 9-0.

With Dylan Ward between the pipes, Andover was kept off the board and Ward got his first shutout of the season. The Squirt 3 Wildcats are now 2-0 on the season and play two games next weekend and Reading and Triton.

Squirt 1's

The Wilmington Youth Hockey Squirt 1's picked up their first win of the season this weekend with a 3-0 victory. The Wildcats came out absolutely flying from the first drop of the puck, likely inspired by a great Herb Brooks style motivational speech from coach Dave and Coach Scott.

AJ Chisholm would get it started with a beautiful shot fed from Ben Doucette and Lily Mackenzie midway through the first period which would start the ball rolling. Late in the first Ben Doucette would bury one deep behind the goalie from his wingman AJ Chisolm to put the Cats up 2-0 coming into the second period.

Great defensive play would continue into the second period and the Wildcats would keep Andover on their heels with relentless offensive play resulting in another Wildcat goal dished up by Bruce GreenAudette from Jessie Martinson nearing the midway mark of the second period and would take the Cats to a 3-0 lead entering the final period.

The Wildcats would continue their assault with great passing and shot after shot throughout the third period. Ben Doucette would serve up his second goal of the day assisted by Eric Spinney and Matt Breen.

Other Wildcats notables on the day were defensemen Maddie Sainato, Lilly Mackenzie, Ryan Papineau, Eric Spinney, and Ryan Quamme who were all solid on defense. All of them at one point or another would make huge plays at the blue line to keep the offense going or would make an even bigger play to keep the puck from in front of the Wildcat net. Steven Constatine would set the tone with some great skating when breaking the puck out and his merciless back checking, no one could get away from him.

Another big story of the day was the goal tending handled by Cameron Splaine. Everything from glove saves to absolutely steering his rebounds was outstanding from the young goal keeper.

Golfers fall in tough battle with North Andover

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com

The Tewksbury High Golf team traveled to North Andover Country Club last Wednesday for a matchup with traditional golf powerhouse, North Andover. Although they came away on the short end of a 14-6 loss, the Redmen had several players perform very well against the five time league champions.

Traditionally, the trip to North Andover has been a rough one for the Redmen, but coach Jim Sullivan was proud of the way his team played in defeat.

"Our goal was to go over there and play smarter and better than we have in the past and to be competitive in our matches," Sullivan said. "Again, there are no moral victories, but in playing to get better every day, this was a day that we walked away knowing that we got better, it's just that the scoreboard didn't show it. It was a day of improvement, a day of getting better."

In the first group of 1's and 2's, Tewksbury's number 1 Ben McKay went out and battled in his match form the first to the ninth hole. On the ninth tee McKay was one down in his match assuring North Andover of at least 1 point in the match but if Ben were to lose the ninth hole, North Andover would end up taking 2 points. On the very difficult 365 yard par 4, Ben ended up winning the hole by making a par 4, while his opponent made a bogey 5, giving both the Redmen and North Andover one point each in that match.

Unfortunately North Andover was able to take both the number two match, as well as the best ball match, with Colby Pierce coming just short in his match, falling 5-4, giving North Andover a 4-1 lead through the first group.

"Colby has been improving all year thus far and we made a move to put him in the two hole today and he responded and played very well. He shot 39 on the day and his opponent shot one better, 38 which ended up being the difference maker in the match on the ninth hole," Sullivan said. "Both these guys went out and played good golf. They played smart and followed the plan, they just came up a bit short that's all."

North Andover took an 8-2 lead after the second group, with No. 3 player Bill Giasullo dropping a 5 & 3 decision in his match, while Johnny Spinelli jumped out to an early lead, and still led by one stroke going to the ninth hole before settling for a tie, earning one point for each team.

"Johnny's been working hard and has been facing some really tough opponents in the two spot so today we wanted to make a few adjustments and changes and he responded pretty well," Sullivan said. "Earning a flat and one point isn't a bad thing but we really would have liked to get both of those points there. Johnny's learning and battling for nine holes every time out, he'll be better for the experience later on in the season when he gets to that same point in a match he'll be able to close the match out."

North Andover would extend their lead to 11-4 after the third group, despite the best effort of Nick Walsh and Garrett Lane. Walsh would run into a buzzsaw in North Andover's Jay Coop who shot a 40 for North Andover and was victorious over Walsh 4&2.

Lane, who has been the Redmen's most consistent player, earned a victory in his match, 1-up. After taking the lead on the first hole and going two up after the second hole, Lane never trailed in the match and held onto a one up lead for the last four holes.

"Garrett has really spent a lot of time in the off season working on his game and it certainly shows," Sullivan said. "The way he came into tryouts ready to go and he has hit the ground running in these early matches thus far."

The final group of Matt Breen and Kyle Lombardo paired up again in the seven and eight spots for the Redmen. In the seven match, Matt Breen found himself down early but fought his way back into the match and at the end of six holes, but he would go on to win both the seventh and eighth holes and earn a hard fought 2&1 victory. Lombardo on the other hand found himself up against North Andover's Carmine Dias, who shot a 4 over par, 39 on the day. Lombardo played well, but Dias

Christian Rainone led a Black squad of four different QBs with four touchdowns in a win over a fast Navy team. Black used a mixture of deep and short passes, including a clutch pass late from Rainone to Lucas Adams, who rumbled up field to keep the Black offense on the field. Jimmy Holmes had a fine game on the defensive side with numerous flag pulls. Nathan Galanis led the Navy team on the ground with multiple long runs and a score. Michael Hill and Noah Russo each had TD passes for Navy, while Scott Lightburn added his first touchdown of the season.

Orange 24, Red 18

Red played hard with only five players active, but Orange was able to pull away for the victory. Luke Montejio, Matthew Flynn, Jack Callahan, Justin Magee, and Connor Broderick all shared the game ball for the Red squad.

This week the Redmen were scheduled for Chelmsford at Trull Brook on Monday (rained out and rescheduled for next Monday), Haverhill at home on Tuesday (results not available at press time) and are at Hickory Hill Golf Course against Dracut on Thursday.

Mass. Hospital Association to change name

BURLINGTON - The familiar name of the Burlington-based Massachusetts Hospital Association has officially changed.

In making the announcement, the MHA officials note the new name will be the Massachusetts Health & Hospital Association to reflect the expanded role of hospitals within the evolving world of health reform.

In turn, the Massachusetts Hospital Association (MHA) has officially changed its 80-year-old name and is now the Massachusetts Health & Hospital Association.

The MHA is located at 500 District Ave. in Burlington.

Area hospitals like the Winchester Hospital and Lahey Hospital & Medical Center in Burlington are members of the MHA.

The name change is effective today, following a vote by the membership and board of trustees at the organization's annual meeting in June.

"Our new name -Massachusetts Health & Hospital Association - better reflects the new healthcare environment in which we're all operating," said Lynn Nicholas, the association's president & CEO. "As the healthcare system becomes more value driven, each component of the system is increasingly focused on maintaining a person's health throughout their lives - as opposed to healing them when they fall ill. Because healthcare is team based and collaborative, played out in numerous venues throughout the course of an individual's life - from neonatal screenings to end-of-life care - we wanted to reflect the multiplicity of health in our name."

The name change includes a new logo design that reflects the contemporary nature of the association's approach to healthcare and reform in Massachusetts as well as its expanded membership.

The association will be retaining its existing acronym, MHA. "Over the last 80 years, MHA has built a significant brand equity and public recognition from our well-known acronym," Nicholas added. "Many organizations use a simplified acronym, like the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services - better known as 'CMS,' and the Center for Disease Control and Prevention, or 'CDC' for short. Similarly, we're going to remain MHA to preserve our primary recognition among our members, the general public and the broader healthcare community."

The Massachusetts Health & Hospital Association (MHA) is a voluntary, not-for-profit organization comprised of hospitals, health systems, caregivers, related organizations, and other members with a common interest in promoting the good health of the people of the commonwealth.

Through leadership in public advocacy, education, and information, MHA represents and advocates for the collective interests of its members and supports their efforts to provide high quality, cost effective and accessible care.

Back-to-School Day

WOBURN - On Saturday, Sept. 10, hundreds of kids and their parents attended Back-to-School Safety Day hosted by Middlesex District Attorney Marian Ryan, Lahey Health and Winchester Hospital. In total, nearly 250 kids explored over 50 different emergency vehicles, while having the opportunity to interact with public safety officials from local, state and federal agencies.

Additionally, Massachusetts State Police and local police departments performed 42 car seat installations and safety checks. Attendees at the event also visited a teddy bear clinic hosted by Winchester Hospital, viewed K-9 demonstrations by specialty dogs and their law enforcement handlers, and visited the Mix 104.1 booth for free ice cream.
